CAP-SHARE

Building Bridges of Shared Capacity between Scientists, Policymakers, and Communities

Rural northern regions have rich, sensitive, and crucial biodiversity.

Its conservation is linked with the capacity of the area's scientists, policymakers, and communities to collaborate.

By bringing people together in actions that are centered on communities and focused on vulnerable stakeholders, CAP-SHARE aims to find more effective ways to work together for the protection of biodiversity - for the future of our region's nature, culture, and heritage.
